Henry Emerick was born on the farm of his father John George: lots 7 & 8 in the 7th., con. Bertie::: lying on the east side of Ridgemount Rd. just south of the Bowen. He built a large two story frame home, just a short distance from the old log cabin, perhaps at the time of his marriage to Fannie Hershey in 1872. It was a two family dwelling from the start, Henry and his wife occupying one side; and possibly his mother the other, as she was deceased by that time. Unfortunately for Henry, he lost the farm shortly after. He moved to the village of Victoria (Bridgeburg) where he proceeded to build another two story frame home on the north west corner of the River Rd. and the street that was to take his name::: Emerick Ave.

Henry took up the job of Postmaster of the village, and again acquired a considerable amount of land. He did much to lay out that part of the village , running from Phipp St. to the Bowen Rd. A member of the Anglican faith, he gave the land at the cr. of Emerick and Central, N.W. for the building of St. Mary's Hall.

After the death of her husband, Fannie Emerick went to live with her neice, the daughter of Nancy Hershey a miss Fannie Wector. JohnB. Hershey and his family lived on the north side of Bertie St. just west of concession, which later became the home of the Wectors; and much later the Race Track property.

After moving to Bridgeburg Henry ran a furniture store, which was later taken over by Attwoods. He also went into the Coal Business, then into real-estate and building. As well as being postmaster of the village of Bridgeburg he was also Clerk and treasurer.

Joseph Stevens operated a Hotel on the river road in the 1860's by the foot of Ferry St. (Boweb Rd.) It is said by his granddaughter that at one time he also owned the dock and the shingle mill. During the Fenian Raids O' Neil spared the hotel and the shingle mill. Mr. Stevens became ill however and moved to a farm on Gilmore Rd. He did not remain there long for the Stevens had a story and a half frame home built on the south side of Gilmore, and what later became Kingsmill , in 1869. It was the only home on that side of the street from concession to the river.
